

LIVE AT LE MUSIQUE ROOM

Our new live album was recorded in a very intimate theater setting at Le Musique Room, opening for our good friends, Bobby Jensen and the Dead Cowboys.

The album represents a true inflection point for our band. After our former guitarist, John Funk, informed us last spring that, "I just have no passion to play hard rock anymore," we had to decide whether to replace him with another second guitarist.

We very briefly considered holding auditions, but rather than going through the agony (and time!) of that process, we elected to forge ahead as a three-piece, and have never looked back or regretted our decision.

The album features songs from our first two studio albums, as well as a brand new track, "Lover," a tune Johnny wrote about a fellow who has watched a woman being mistreated by someone from afar, and tells her to "leave him – c'mon with me!"

"Lover" is the first single from our upcoming third studio album, which again will be co-produced, recorded, and mixed by Johnny's "Blood Brother," the incomparable Brian Bart.

We cannot wait for our fans to hear us get back to our hard rock roots - this time as a three-piece!
